

ILLUMINATING THE WEB OF INFLUENCE

A Five Week Virtual Intensive

With Patricia Albere & Jeff Carreira

What Does Illuminating The Web of Influence Mean?

Have you ever noticed that who you are depends upon whom you are with?
Think about it. Aren't you different around different people?

Notice ways in which you act differently, feel differently and think differently in your various relationships. It's a fascinating occurrence that illustrates that we are not just individuals, we are social beings. Our independent and autonomous existence is always embedded within a web of influence that connects every aspect of who we are to those around us.

This web of influence that surrounds us is a massive and complex weave of ideas, images, actions and desires. It is closer to us than the air we breathe. It is us, in many ways. When we recognize the profound depths of mutual influence that exist between us we also begin to see profound new possibilities for human development— collective human development— that we refer to as The Evolutionary Collective.

Manifesting these possibilities is at the core of this Virtual Intensive where, together, we will be exploring our role in the web of influence and discovering through active, experiential engagement how we can have the most positive evolutionary influence on each other.

It is time to move beyond the lone struggle for growth and to become social – inter-subjective – architects, working together to build a web of influence that will serve the growth of everyone involved and extend powerfully into the world.

SCHEDULE:

Details about this Extended Virtual Gathering

---

In each of the five sessions you will be instructed through a process of mutual discovery with Patricia and Jeff. Content will include a series of exercises and discussions in both large and small groups utilizing various modalities designed to open up an intensive field of relatedness.

The work is all done virtually via virtual seminar. Once you register you will receive a dial-in number and PIN code that will give you access to the day-long virtual gathering and each of the four weekly seminars to follow.

Once you register more detailed suggestions for how to optimize your experience of the gathering will be sent to you.

We encourage, whenever possible, that people gather together locally to participate in groups. For those of you wishing to participate in a local group setting, you will have the opportunity to do some of the exercises together as part of the smaller group exercises.

If you have a group of four or more people who plan to gather together please email us to receive a special group discount on the registration fee.

A Unique Collaboration of Change Leaders

At age 18, Patricia Albere took the first significant step into what would become a lifelong inquiry into the infinite possibilities of human growth and development, spirituality and the development of what she has coined, the Evolutionary Collective. At 18 she was on the leading edge of transformation, participating in the first-ever “est” training and became one of the original core members of Werner Erhard’s “est” organization (currently called Landmark Education) and continued working with Erhard for 12 years. Following these early years her commitment to understanding what’s possible in the evolution of humanity kept her pursuing the edge where the newest discoveries, innovations and possibilities for both personal and collective transformation could be found. She has worked with over 150,000 people in the last 40 years, particularly in long term, focused group work with highly committed individuals. Now 25 years later she is the founder of the Evolutionary Collective Institute and Evolutionary Collective Conversations – a bi-monthly international webcast featuring thought leaders, visionaries and evolutionary spiritual teachers.

Jeff Carreira is currently the Director of Education at EnlightenNext where he coordinates and guides the ongoing development of a worldwide network of individuals who are committed to individual and collective evolution. He has spent the past two decades helping to build and guide a global movement of evolving individuals. He works closely with spiritual teacher and founder of EnlightenNext, Andrew Cohen and has learned to embody and communicate the principles and practices of Evolutionary Enlightenment.

Together for the first time, these two pioneers are offering their mutual strengths, gifts and skills in both individual transformation and collective growth and development. Their intention is to create a powerful field of shared consciousness that will reveal potentials for human development that can take us far beyond the limits of personal growth.
